stration in favor of universal peace. The speakers were John Hays Hammond, Dr. Joseph Silverman, Mayor Mitchel, Irvin Joseph Silverman, Mayor Mitches, Cobb and Mrs. Fred Nathan.

"One of the things which is brought most forcibly home to us out of the present conflict in Europe," said Mr. Hammond, "is the interdependence of the nations. All of them suffer, and the more highly civilized the nation it would

From this fact alone we may readily see the need of universal peace. The waste of war is almost immeasurable. But I believe despite this that under ex-isting conditions and international rela-tionships we must be prepared for war.

Necessary Under Conditions.

"I know all of the peoples engaged in e European war, for I have been connected with engineering tasks in all of their countries, and I hold them all in high regard. They are fighting because existing conditions make it necessary for them to fight. I would not ascribe to any one of the nations now at war any par-ticular virtues which I would withhold from the others. All of them are equally great in sympathy, in kindliness, in char-icy and in the other cardinal principles. "For my own part I advocate an international tribunal where all disputes may be settled. Because of its unimpeachable neutrality, because of its financial status and its commercial conditions and because of its civilization, this country, the United States, is preeminently the nation to lead in a movement for international peace." Mr. Hammond's reference to the wisdom of preparing for war was received with much applause. Others of the speakers who made reference to the same subject and said that they believed in preparedness for war while international relations

"I am very glad to join you in this demonstration," said Mayor Mitchel. "We want peace, and I believe it is fair to say that those people fighting now in Europe want it also. But we are particufortunate to enjoy peace at such a when all of the other great Powers in the world are at swords points.

"While I believe that the peace which we are now enjoying should be main-tained, I cannot close my eyes to facts and conditions, and I do not believe that any nation will secure prosperity by al-lowing itself to be overridden by any other
